

DAOSTACK Limited
(Alchemy)
Cookie Policy
Last updated: December, 2019

This Cookie Policy describes how DAOStack Limited (“DAOSTACK” or “we”) and/or our service providers uses cookies and other similar means in the course of your access and use of our proprietary Alchemy User Interface, which is accessible via the <https://alchemy.daostack.io/> domain (“Alchemy”) and is designated to be read concurrently with our Privacy Notice [<https://alchemy.daostack.io/privacy-policy>].

We manage Alchemy in such manner where we utilize third party service providers to collect information for us. As such, we have no control over the type of measures that they use, nor their characteristics (for example, they may use persistent Cookies, GIFs, beacons, and the likes, which may be kept for varying terms and periods). Thus, when you visit Alchemy, our service providers may send one or more cookies (a small text file containing a string of alphanumeric characters) or other means to your computer that uniquely identifies your browser and lets us help you log in faster and enhance your navigation through Alchemy.

Below you may find a list of our engaged third party service providers and the purpose of their utilization of the information collection means.

We also recommend you to review the general summary below regarding the type of means which may be utilized.

1. Cookies, pixels and clear codes.

Cookies.

- 1.1 Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer or mobile phone when you browse websites, often used to keep record of actions taken on such website or track related browsing activity. A cookie may also convey information to us about how you use Alchemy (e.g., the pages you view, the links you click and other actions you take on Alchemy), and allow us to track your usage of Alchemy over time. A persistent cookie remains on your hard drive after you close your browser. Persistent cookies may be used by your browser on subsequent visits to Alchemy. Persistent cookies can be removed by following your web browser's directions. A session cookie is temporary and disappears after you close your browser.

Pixels, beacons and clear-codes.

- 1.2 Pixels, beacons and clear-codes are codes which trigger the use of cookies by us or third parties. GIFs may be used to anonymously track the online usage patterns of our users.

- 1.3 Analytics and Statistics Cookies.

Our service providers may use cookies to compile visitor statistics, such as how many people have visited Alchemy, what type of technology they are using (e.g. Mac or Windows which helps to identify when Alchemy is not working properly), how long they spend on Alchemy and other third party, what page they look, scrolling activities and other factors. This helps us to continuously improve Alchemy. These so-called analytics programs also tell us if, on an anonymous basis, how people reached our domain (e.g. from a search engine) and whether they have been here before helping us to put more money into developing our services for you instead of marketing spend.

1.4 Function and Performance Cookies.

1.4.1 We may have arrangements with some of our third party vendors who provide services regarding Alchemy, or which services or products we utilize or implement on Alchemy. We use Cookies and other similar means to accomplish this.

1.4.2 Please note that disabling these cookies may disrupt the functionality of your use of Alchemy, and thus any blocking you impose on our use of these means may prevent you from fully utilizing Alchemy.

3. Turning Cookies Off

We do not respond to “Do Not Track” (DNT) signals; however, each of the above service provider that utilizes its respective means within the course of your use of Alchemy, may have different policies regarding DNT. Also, some third party sites do keep track of your browsing activities when they serve you content, which enables them to tailor what they present to you. If you are visiting such sites, your browser may allow you to set the DNT signal on your browser so that third parties (particularly advertisers) know you do not want to be tracked.

You may elect to opt-out from enabling Cookies: in the browser’s settings tools, usually by choosing between several options offered by the browser (some browsers (such as, Google Chrome®) allow blocking Cookies from a specific website, and respectively you may choose to block applicable Cookies).

4. Consent

You understand that we may place cookies on your computer, including analytical cookies, in accordance with the terms of this Cookies Policy, for such purposes described under our Privacy Notice.

If the settings on your software that you are using to use Alchemy (i.e., your browser) are adjusted to accept cookies we take this, and your continued use of Alchemy, to mean that you accept having us place cookies on your device. Please note that if you decide to block any cookies (particularly essential cookies) you may not be able to access all or parts of Alchemy, and not all Alchemy features may work as you would expect.

5. General

We may change this Cookie Policy from time to time. Please take a look at the “Last Updated” legend at the top of this page to see when this Cookie Policy was last revised.

Any changes to this Cookie Policy will become effective when we post the revised Cookie Policy on Alchemy. Your use of Alchemy following these changes means that you accept the revised Cookie Policy.
